Time is a precious element. When it is here, we can never find enough, and when it is past, it becomes the basis for all future expectations. Everywhere we go, we are reminded that each moment, each hour, and each day are swiftly passing, and yet . . . there is a time for so many things in a school year.

The South High student has found that school is a time for searching, for asking questions and formulating ideas. Life has a serious side, and with the acceptance of responsibility, Colonels acknowledged their potential as future leaders. There is also a time for fun and gaiety in a school year. Rewarded by victory and screams, Southern Colonels spent long hours in hard practice at sports, and there was laughter on the faces of those who joined in the Homecoming festivities, or started new traditions like "spirit week." Partners were seen dancing cheek-to-cheek at the "Plantation Ball," but the happiness was just as unmistakable in the "The Boyfriend" cast after receiving a standing ovation. The South High student experienced many rich and varied emotions, climaxed upon receiving his high school diploma, the symbol of his accomplishments.

Time has always been the vehicle for growth and change, and while we hold fast to each minute before relinquishing it to the past, we wait in eager anticipation for the next moment to come. Because each student of South High has given unfailingly of his time, this school year of 1967-68 belongs to him. That time of "so many things" has created an experience that has become an integral part and guiding force of the students' life.

Principal — Board Combined old with new in effective programming

Under the leadership of Dr. Ralph Pyles, South High progressed in the fields of education and guidance. Working in close harmony with Dr. Shepoiser, superintendent of schools, and the Wichita School Board of Education, the principal carried out their directives and policies in an effective program. While maintaining the "old," he enforced the "new" in education that would enhance and enrich learning. He initiated the technique of team teaching, and as supervisor of 141 certified and classified personnel, was responsible for the excellent cooperation among the staff. But more than that, he was a public relations man. Relating to parents and the general public alike, South's principal was a counselor and friend to every student. Throughout the year, Dr. Pyles spent much of his time in problem solving and advising.

Administrators

Worked together, took charge of school affairs

Administrators, in any organization, have a diverse, demanding job requiring many long hours of work. South High has been no exception. Supervising the office staff, compiling schedules, and setting up bus services were just a few of the numerous jobs performed by Mr. Harold Stiles, assistant principal. Kept busy by student activities and a school events calendar, assistant principal Mr. Henry Claassen found that the school PTA also needed his time. Yet, regardless of individual responsibility, the team approach to administration received the most emphasis. The combined efforts of Dr. Pyles, Mr. Stiles, and Mr. Claassen were very effective in the handling of school problems and affairs. All three dealt together with such matters as discipline and attendance — giving to South the best possible use of their time.

MR. CLAASSEN and Mr. Stiles relax in the Lawrence Stadium press box at halftime of the victorious South-Heights encounter.

HENRY CLAASSEN — B.S., M.A.; Assistant Principal

HAROLD STILES — B.A., M.E., Assistant Principal

MISS GATLEY and Miss Stone referred to the teacher's class list while making a schedule change.

GERALD MORRISON — Guidance Coordinator; B.S., M.E.

DORTH HIBBS — Senior Counselor; B.S., M.S., Ed. S.

THELMA GATLEY — Junior Counselor; B.S., M.A.

LORENE STONE — Sophomore Counselor; A.B., M.A.

Counselors

Aided pupil development within school atmosphere

The guidance staff, with its ready help, was a reassuring element in the South High curriculum. The four counselors, sparing neither time nor effort, assisted students in becoming educationally, vocationally, socially, and emotionally mature. Tests, ranging from aptitude to college admittance, were scheduled throughout the year, and students were kept well-informed about scholarships and job opportunities. An important aid to the graduating senior was the guidance received in choosing a vocation, or deciding upon a certain college or university. Striving towards a very real goal, the expert counseling was aimed at guiding the students to become self directing so that they not only recognized but developed their talents to the fullest extent possible in the school setting.

GREETING Mrs. Jean Dunn at the annual College Night, Mr. Dorth Hibbs was pleased with this opportunity to meet parents.

Office Staff

Performed many duties for school's personnel

Without the reliable help of the office staff, South High's teachers and administrators would never have had time to accomplish their objectives. Involving numerous and demanding tasks, the business end of school affairs was expertly handled by a clerical staff of seven. In addition to normal secretarial jobs, schedules had to be arranged, textbooks issued, and grade cards distributed. The quick pace of school operations constantly added to the list of office duties. Mr. Roger Zettl, both himself and his position new to South, was the security officer. Spending each morning in the parking lot, as well as performing other tasks given him by Dr. Pyles, his job was to protect and guard the interests of the students. Working together to maintain its high rate of efficiency, the staff spent many hours each day in keeping the school business functioning smoothly.

CALLED UPON to assist Mrs. Juanita Kisner with her duties as treasurer, counting money was a job Mrs. Velma Aldridge did not seem to mind.

MRS. VELMA ALDRIDGE — Attendance Clerk

MRS. THERESA STEWART — Teacher's Aide
MR. ROGER ZETTL — Security Officer

KENNY KISNER, head custodian    MRS. FLOSSIE ROBINS, matron    GLADYS DENNY, cafeteria manager

Service Staff

Handled additional work; created new serving line

Providing well-balanced, nutritious meals for our student body this year was a time-consuming task. Although the additional 278 students created problems in planning, the cafeteria staff maintained their well-planned efficiency. Another deviation from last year's routine, yet a welcome addition and time saver for the students, was the new fast line. For the first time, hamburgers and shakes could be purchased without leaving the campus. The proper maintenance of our school and grounds was the important job well handled by the custodial staff. Often working overtime, these men were responsible for the auditorium, the public address system, and all lighting. A new floor machine assisted in speeding up the work, increased this year by the addition of eight temporary buildings.

CHANGING BRUSHES on the new floor polisher, Harvey Ruhl kept the machine in good condition.

WHILE COMPILING information for his junior research paper, Mike Pottorf discovered that the collection of magazines in the library could be a valuable reference source.

SANDY STONE and other members of Mrs. McPherron's junior English class supplemented their studies of "Huckleberry Finn" by listening to an album of Mark Twain's readings.

Language Arts

Emphasized expression with creative new text

Time had lent a quaintness to the "reading and writing" definition of "English," but it described this year's English classes quite aptly. New text and teaching methods centered around creative expression, and for the first time, composition books were issued to all levels. The increased interest in dramatics and debate indicated that the idea of creativeness was well received. Four teachers were new to the department. Mrs. Patsy Kerley and Mrs. Barbara Bayer were replacements, and the large enrollment explains the two additions, Mr. Clark Lyman and Mrs. Jane Connett. Continuing in his developmental reading program, Mr. Robert Crow gave the participating students the chance to increase their vocabulary and add to their reading comprehension. Six of the teachers from this department had their rooms in the new portables, and all "liked them very much."

Foreign Language

Travel programs offered students deeper insight

In a world grown very small, time is no longer a setback to international relations. This development has demanded the advance of communication and understanding between countries. With this thought in mind, the teachers in the foreign language department strove to increase the interest of students in foreign languages. New teachers Mrs. Barbara Bayer and Miss Martha Macnamara teaching German and Spanish, respectively, added to the skill and enthusiasm of the department. The response to this emphasis was evident in the participation of more students in the foreign travel program. Open to French, German, Latin, and Spanish students, this six week summer course gave students a "once-in-a-lifetime" opportunity for gaining first hand a better knowledge and insight to lives and problems different than their own.

CREATING A display on Spanish music, Rhonda Rouse, Susan Davis, and Sue Schesser added interest to class routine.

"TURN DOWN the volume!" thought Loretta Shull frantically as someone tampered with the controls in the language lab.

PRESENTING AN assignment in dramatic form, Andre Thomas gained fluency in speaking German.

WRINKLING HER nose, senior Nancy Lowman erased an error she made while typing.

STEVE TINIOUS bent over an offset master to finish a job of lettering in office machines.

Business

Stimulated career choice; offered on-the-job classes

This year South was the only high school in Kansas having a business department that offered three on-the-job training classes. Office Machine Design and Duplicating, coordinated by Mr. Jack Kinderknecht; Distributive Education, coordinated by Mrs. Joan Seaton; and Office Practice, coordinated by Mrs. Lovetta Russell, belonged to Business Education Clubs of Kansas. Credit requirements specifying employment of 15 to 20 hours weekly in addition to morning classes stimulated well-rounded growth in each particular field. For South's ten outstanding business teachers, the passing of time has accumulated 120 years of teaching experience. The time in the classroom varied from three years, for the youngest teacher, to the meritorious 32 years of Miss Olson. In addition to teaching time, there were 80 years of office and sales work experienced by the business faculty.

LOOKING ASCANCE at a bewildering chart of wiggly lines, Cynthia Utterback copied an assignment in shorthand.

USING THE TOOLS of geography, junior Joe Robinson found important locations pertaining to his study of U.S. History.

Social Science

Introduced Humanities; adopted team teaching

Team teaching became an integral part of South this year when it was adopted into the social science department. The three government classes, averaging one hundred students apiece, were taught by Mr. David Estill, Mr. Ralph Ross, and Mr. Jim Anderson. Although students found the course "more difficult than smaller classes," they agreed that it was, "very thorough, and good learning experience." This method of combining the special talents of different teachers also was introduced into Humanities, a new course involving social studies, art, and literature. Delving into the dimensions of time, these students made a study of man's relationship to himself and to his universe. In the department, new teachers were Mr. Anderson, and former student teacher Mr. Charles Carver, who taught psychology.

MR. JAMES ANDERSON, speaking to a group of senior government students, made effective use of the team teaching method introduced at South this year.

DUANE PURSER discovered that there was an easier method of solving a problem than using mental ability as he learned to operate a mathematical calculator under the instruction of Mr. Tom Martin.

Mathematics

Used computer machines; organized study program

Moving another step forward on time's measuring stick, the mathematics department introduced a new program this year for improving the basic mathematics courses. Through the use of computer machines, students were able to see the precise way in which a problem was solved. For those who wanted a broader knowledge of mathematics, an independent study program was organized. Under the guidance of Mr. Thomas Martin, these students gained a better understanding of the intricacies involving mathematics. Two teachers, Mr. Wallace Blackwood and Mr. Michael Cardenas, utilized their time during the summer by attending Kansas universities on study grants awarded to them. The Math Club, sponsored by Mr. Richard Feeney, used the school's increased enrollment to its advantage by adding new members.

DAVID KENNEDY relied on his previous instruction in geometry while solving a postulate presented to him in Algebra II.

"SKIN THE CAT" became more than a cliché for Gail Drumm, Jackie Parker, and Richard Hunter as they studied anatomy by dissecting a bobcat.

Science

Delved into aeronautics; examined total universe

The mysteries of time past have long posed countless questions for human beings. Students of science sought out these questions and searched for the answers through study and experimentation. Creating the opportunity to learn about the space age, Mr. Jim Anders taught a ground school course in aeronautics, and those students interested in physical science found the additional course in standard physics useful. The new biology teacher, Mr. Dennis Baker, divided his time between the science and industrial arts departments. From geology to astronomy, the teachers combined the workings of the total universe with the third element of time, our future, to give students a practical knowledge of science's potential for the years ahead.

BECAUSE ACCURACY is paramount in the science of chemistry, senior Mike Goodwin took utmost care to balance the scales.

Home Economics

Taught varied courses; presented Crisco award

Making valuable use of allotted school time, the home economics department taught students nearly every aspect of successful homemaking and development. In addition to the regular classes in food preparation and clothing construction, the department taught such courses as Child Development, and Home and Family Living. This overall combination taught students to cope with the many faceted problems of maintaining a home. Mrs. Elda Nedrow, a replacement in Clothing II, was the only new teacher on the staff, although Mrs. Doris Wright became the new co-ordinator. This year for the first time, South's home economics department presented a Crisco award to its best student. This was awarded in May at the annual fashion show, an event which left no doubt of the time and effort that had been given to homemaking.

PRELIMINARY WORK on a sewing assignment kept Rita Windler busy with pattern pieces.

MRS. MOSS and Christy Hill were delighted at taking part in a buffet dinner during class time.

OFFERING ADVICE to Linda Sagg, Mark Sanborn voiced his opinions on a home furnishings project.

Fine Arts

Used mind, hand, voice to develop talent, create

Keeping time to the rhythm of progress, students in the fine arts department developed their talents in music and art. Beginning with a fall concert, the seven vocal groups, including the new South High Singers, participated in everything from assemblies and club shows to music banquets and festivals. The instrumental groups, under the guidance of a new director, Mr. Roger Roller, performed at football games and assemblies in addition to giving concerts. Striving for individuality and creativeness, art students expressed themselves in many ways. Increasing the department's competence, new art teacher Mr. Robert Bridges initiated different methods and ideas. This year for the first time, the talents of all the fine art students were combined in one program. This show displayed both creative art work and well performed musical compositions.

CLEAR, MELODIC notes were Karen Gilbert's reward for rehearsing diligently on the clarinet.

ABSORBED IN creating a clay bowl, art teacher Mr. Charles Sanderson demonstrated the use of the potter's wheel.

DISPLAYING VARYING emotions while practicing, students in Musesettes prepared for the fall concert.

INTENT ON producing a perfect sample of welding, senior Wayne Bailey concentrated in Metals II.

Industrial Arts

Opened job opportunities; developed technical skill

Looking ahead to the time when today's generation will be supporting itself, the industrial arts program worked for two main objectives. While students prepared themselves for a vocation by acquiring technical skills, they were taking the first step in becoming better citizens. Mr. Dennis Baker, an addition to the staff, helped with these goals by teaching three classes in mechanical drawing. Concerned with furthering these ambitions of the program is the Kansas Industrial Arts Association, which held its annual convention at South under the direction of Mr. Lindley Cox. An addition to the woodworking shop was the newly installed wood dust collecting system. This operation effectively eliminated a very real dust hazard, a problem the staff had been trying to solve for seven years.

GARY WILSON used the platen press to its utmost capacity in reproducing exact copies of a hand-set pamphlet.

Physical Education

Held inter-school sports; improved athletic skills

Directing their efforts toward achieving a goal of physical fitness, students enrolled in physical education concentrated in timing and co-ordination. These factors, stressed throughout the year by the instructors, were the basis for all team sports and individual skills. In addition to intramurals and varsity athletics, boys' physical education offered 17 different programs that provided excellent opportunities for development of physical skills and recreational activities. Placing special emphasis on rhythm and grace, girls worked on an over-all fitness plan and participated in after school practices for the new competitive inter-school sports program. Although physical education was required only for sophomores, the two gyms averaged a total of 2,000 students who were in class each day.

REACHING UPWARD, Barry Powell set the ceiling for his goal.

PROVIDED WITH an unwieldy and most uncooperative object, Debbie King played a strenuous game of giant volleyball.

WORKING OUT with a new piece of gym equipment, Robby Gore felt the strain of the different method of physical development.

"The Boy Friend"

Treated modern students to gay Roaring Twenties

A poor little rich girl's search for a boyfriend who would be more concerned with her than her money, was the motivating force behind the musical comedy, "The Boy Friend." In this spoof of the Roaring Twenties, Polly Brown (Pam Haxen) and Tony Brockhurst (Bernie Popp) were led into a delightful whirl of love and misunderstanding as each tried to conceal their identity from the other. When anxious parents merged into the scene, the result was a matchless farce involving ten weddings, and an ending where all "lived happily ever after." The 88 costumes for the play were quite elaborate, but the sets were simplified with periaktoe, an ancient type of Greek scenery used for the first time at South. The large cast spent many hours in rehearsal, but were well rewarded with laughter, applause, and on the last night, a standing ovation.

SINGING FONDLY to Kathy Hobson, Phil DeLozier decided, "It's never too late to fall in love."

LARRY DELOZIER dragged his partner Bonnie Brisbin off the stage after the boisterous carnival tango.

POSING FOR the finale were Greg Greider, Rita Halsig, Patti Webster, Phil DeLozier, Jim Blair, Lynnette Mason, Bernie Popp, Pam Hazen, Larry DeLozier, and Kathy Hobson.

ARGUING WITH her husband John, Mrs. Montague asserted that the supernatural beings of Hill House were simply starved for love.

CONCERNED, LUKE watched while Theodora frightened Eleanor with a scrapbook which vividly portrayed the deadly sins and their punishments.

"Haunting of Hill House"

Evoked terror with use of special sound effects

"Hill House has enchained and destroyed its people and their lives." Dr. Montague (Ken Shunatona) thusly warned his guests Eleanor Vance (Colleen Criss), Theodora (Kathy Lesperance), and Luke Sanderson (Jim Blair) about the ill will of Hill House. Puzzled by the housekeeper Mrs. Dudley (Carol Calkins), and interrupted by the nagging Mrs. Montague (Pat Cole) and her friend Arthur (Bernie Popp), the group searched for an explanation to the house's supernatural manifestations. Stage work was especially difficult for this show. The two room mid-Victorian set required elaborate preparations, and a movable wall had to be devised to allow room for both sets. The special sound effects created with Mr. Arthur Blue's organ, and Larry Gray's laughter contributed to the chilling atmosphere of the play.

HUDDLING TOGETHER in terrified suspense, Theo and Eleanor waited helpless while the "thing" pounded on the bedroom door.

AWAKENED IN the night by a calling voice, Eleanor searched for the spirit of her dead mother.

"Society in Introspect"

Entertained, enlightened; examined current values

Play tryouts have attracted such increasing numbers of students that this year a night of one-acts was scheduled. The eight plays of "Society in Introspect," covering a wide range of comedy and drama, involved over 35 people. Providing light-hearted entertainment that nonetheless carried a bite were "Happiness Is," and "What Did You Learn in School Today." Along this same vein were two farces, "Macbeth Murder Mystery," and "Mr. Preble Gets Rid of His Wife." "The Ugly Duckling," a fairy tale fantasy about a princess who wasn't beautiful, the philosophical "Aria Da Capo," and the poignant drama "This Property is Condemned" evoked somewhat warmer responses from the audience. But by far the best received play was "Dope," a social drama of today's youth.

TOM (JIM BLAIR) examined Willie's (Pam Hazen) scratched knee in "This Property is Condemned."

MRS. PREBLE (Kathy Lesperance) suspiciously watched Miss Daly (Donna Dehne). Mr. Preble's (Larry Gray) vivacious secretary.

THE TWO dead shepherds (Drew Reynolds; Ken Shunatona) contrasted sharply with the farce played by Pierrot (Bernie Popp) and Columbine (Colleen Criss) in "Aria da Capo."

CELEE (CINDY WINDHAM) lent support to her heroine addicted brother Louie (Jim Blair), while his connection Porse (John Monteith) watched unsympathetically.

THE MILLER family in portrait. (M. Criss, P. Hazen, J. Kaufman, T. Criss, V. Creamer, C. Criss, M. Pottorf, R. Halsig, D. Bray.)

RICHARD KEPT a rendezvous with Belle (Kathy Hobson), one of the girls at the Pleasant Beach House.

REUNITED, RICHARD begged Murial's forgiveness during a secret meeting at night on the beach.

"Ah, Wilderness!"

Illustrated complexities of adolescent rebellion

Growing up has long been a painful process, not only for adolescents, but for adults as well. Richard Miller (Mike Pottorf), after rebelling against middle class norms, discovered this with his parents Essie and Nat (Pam Hazen, Terry Lansdowne; J. B. Kaufman) in a few incidents involving pornographic poetry, a drunken bout, and an encounter with a chorus girl. The four sets, played against a lighted cyclorama, were unique for their simple, yet effective designs. Richard's beach scene with Murial (Dona Dehne) was complete with a dead tree and wrecked boat. Rich with the humor of the bumbling, usually drunk Uncle Sid (Phil DeLozier), and warm with the quiet dignity of the maiden Aunt Lily (Rita Halsig), "Ah, Wilderness!" uncovered some startling truths about people and society.

APPLYING MAKE-UP to Al Johnson, Cricket Criss and Kevin McMillen brushed up on techniques for creating wrinkles.

WHILE CLEANING out the prop room, J. B. Kaufman, Patti Webster, Lynette Mason, Kathy Hobson, and Marilou Edmiston took their time to better enjoy the job.

Thespians

Entertained community, school with productions

Working diligently as a team, members of the Plantation Players and National Thespian Society Troupe #182 combined their talents to learn about and develop in all phases of the theatre. In addition to the three shows annually presented to the student body, the drama department this year experimented with a night of one-acts. While providing more opportunities to earn the ten points necessary for membership in the troupe, this production also stimulated an increasing interest in dramatics. Always active, the group helped with the Christmas vespers, participated in school-sponsored functions, and furnished entertainment for civic groups with a short one-act play written by Miss Karen Pyles, sponsor, and Miss Phyllis Barnum. The traditional awards banquet in May culminated the end of a rewarding year.

FACULTY EDITOR Teresa Hill and student life editor Lynette Crawford scanned various yearbooks for ideas while copy editor Colleen Criss creatively wrote and edited copy for the 1968 Sabre.

Sabre

Represented school year with words, photographs

Nothing is more demanding than a deadline, and members of the 1967-68 Sabre staff experienced their quota of such binding time limits. While it was true that many hours were spent in fun and laughter, the work required for compiling an outstanding book created a challenging and rewarding course. Striving to capture the school scene at South with pictures and words, weaving them into a meaningful account of a memorable year, involved planning layouts, pasting photographs, and writing and re-typing pages of copy. As an additional service to the students, the staff also produced the Dixie Dialer, and sold sophomore and junior class pictures. For the second year, members were treated to a lavish dinner at Ken's Club after selling more pictures than any other Wichita school.

FEATURE PAGE editor Marcia Simmons (RIGHT) and her assistant editors Denise Hardtarfer, Alice Burkett, and Linda Rising worked on a new feature story for the Southerner.

SPORTS WRITERS Tony Carr and Terry Pilgreen carefully chose the correct picture for their sports story.

BUSINESS MANAGER Debbie Smith and her assistant Donna Smith scanned previous advertisement copy while Jill Schinnerer, Gail Bourke, and exchange editor Shirley West assisted them.

NEWS EDITOR Cindy Nietfeld and her assistants, Wanda Chapman and Scott Boyd, combined to form an effective news team, and editorialist Larry Spurrier commented on issues important to South and the community.

Southerner

Demanded clear thinking, sharp wits for efficiency

Every two weeks, South High students were provided with a newspaper that accurately presented the school's activities in concise, informative summaries. Challenged by continual deadlines, Southerner staff members worked quickly and efficiently, striving for improvements. Constantly on the lookout for news stories, feature articles, and good advertisements, they found that sharp wits and clear thinking were essential ingredients of the good journalism student. Increasing interest within the student body by featuring opinion polls and offering critical editorials on school issues served to promote better school relations. By diligent efforts, the Southerner staff realized their two goals — to become more proficient in journalism, and to effectively serve the students of South.

MEMBERS OF THE publicity and art committees were Vicki Williams, Marilou Edmiston, Elaine Cantrell, Susan Haller, and Denise Hardtarfer.

Savant

Reorganized committees to meet as literary club

Time has passed rapidly for the 1967-68 Savant staff. In its three short, successful years, the Savant has earned and maintained its reputation as a showcase for creative writing. The format for this year's Savant remained basically the same, but changes in the procedures of the committees were numerous and fascinating. For the first time, the Savant staff met not only to edit the works in prose and poetry of talented South High students, but they also met as a literary club. Following the example of college literary clubs, plays, novels, and pop music albums were analyzed and discussed. The staff worked hard to increase their understanding of literature, improve their writing and editing abilities, and maintain the excellent quality of South High's Savant.

OFFICERS FOR the 1967-68 Savant were (SEATED): Mrs. L. McPherron, sponsor; Sandie Eyman, assistant editor; Diane Kemble, prose editor; Ginger Webb, poetry editor. STANDING: Mike Burt, editor; and Vicki Williams, publicity and art chairman.

POETRY COMMITTEE members were (SEATED): Stephanie Warren, Ginger Webb, poetry editor. STANDING: Marilou Edmiston, Sandie Eyman, and Miss M. Willoughby, sponsor.

Earned seven trophies; met at contests, festivals

Setting South's top debate record by bringing home seven trophies was a feat of which the Forensic League was justly proud. Debating whether Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures gave students the chance to think about and question some of today's problems and politics. Over 2,000 miles were covered traveling to tournaments, giving debaters the opportunity to earn the twenty points necessary for membership in the National Forensics League. After the debate season, members attended speech festivals and contests, sponsoring South's annual Cotton-pickin' Festival in the spring. At the end of the school year, the debate squad celebrated with a big party. While the top six debaters were given steak, the rest had to be content with beans.

FILE CABINETS and old newspapers provided valuable sources of information for Joel White and Mike Albert, researching the debate topic.

ENROUTE TO the Pratt Conference, Steve Shumaker, Marianne Carter, Shirley West, and Sydney Martin prepared to leave during school hours.

FILLING A Christmas box for Operation Holiday, one of Student Government's projects, were Abe Serrano, Elizabeth Arpin, and Peggy Wiemeyer.

Student Government

Initiated new committees for co-ordinating projects

Representatives of the South High Student Government initiated activities designed to help each individual better himself and improve student-administration relations. Sponsoring buses to the out-of-town games helped promote school spirit and Teacher Appreciation week was another project designed to obtain their goal. For the first time in Student Government, standing committees were set up to co-ordinate the projects throughout the year. Some of these projects were to replace the Victory Bell Plaque, put loudspeakers in the boys gym and the balcony of the auditorium, and to sponsor the hall decorating contest during Christmas. South High Student Government was a member of the Inter-City Council, and devoted its time to make Student Government more active, and involve more people.

ACTING AS judges for the annual Hall Decoration Contest were Mike Albert and Rick Beam.

German Club

Heard guest speakers; raised money for travel

Discovering and understanding the German people and their culture was the main objective of members of the 1967-68 German club. Early in the year, students who had participated in the study abroad program of the previous summer shared their experiences and discussed slides they had taken of their trip. Additional insight and knowledge of the German people and their customs was supplied by various guest speakers from Germany. Members found that Christmas offered an opportunity to observe several of the traditional German customs that they had studied. Working together they made an Adventkranz, decorated a hall, and highlighted the season with a party. During the year they also operated a booth at the Mardi Gras and earned money to support the European trips in the summer of 1968.

AT A REGULAR meeting, Kenny Garrett greeted Michael John, a guest speaker from Germany, as Debbie Weinbrenner and Joan Crown looked on.

GERMAN CLUB officers were Patty Dilsaver, president; Jeanette Tepe, secretary-treasurer; and Randy Degenhardt, vice-president.

SYNDA SCHRODER, Becky Goering, Randy Degenhardt, and Patty Dilsaver were pictured as they made an Adventkranz, the traditional wreath for the German Christmas season.

French Club

Advanced understanding of French culture, life

Stressing cultural endeavors and activities, French Club tried to acquaint its members with different aspects of life in France. The members sampled French foods at a special breakfast and conducted a bake-off of French recipes. They also tasted imported French cheeses at a regular meeting, and in the spring they held a French banquet. Saint Catherine's Day was celebrated with a parade by the girls, wearing hats they had designed especially for the occasion. After an evening of caroling, the French Club held their annual Christmas party which included the appearances of Pere Noel and Pere Fouettard. Next year, the club plans to purchase several French records and study some of the top French recording artists.

DEBBIE BROWNLEE modeled the hat that she created especially for the St. Catherine's Day celebration.

Latin Club

Recreated the Saturnalia of Roman Christmastide

Interest was enthusiastically expressed as members of Latin Club discovered the ancient Roman culture and its contemporary applications. The most memorable event of the entire year was the Saturnalia which was hosted by South. Held in December, the celebration demanded a great deal of planning, cooperation, and work in order to recreate the typical Roman atmosphere of the ancient custom. Featured at two meetings were slide presentations and talks about Greece and Italy given by the club sponsor, Mrs. Ann Brewer. She had toured these areas during the previous summer. In addition to those who had joined in earlier years, seven students became members of the National Classical League. Enthusiasm ran high as participants learned to more fully appreciate the great heritage left them by the Romans.

LATIN CLUB officers were Irma Thurman, secretary; Ann Jordan, treasurer; Sydney Martin, president; Pat Cole, vice-president.

RICHARD ROLLER, while attending the Saturnalia, displayed the superb form of the ancient Roman discus thrower.

AFTER PURCHASING a slave at the Saturnalia, Terry Norton made it quite clear to Judy Melton that he was the master and she the slave.

YVONNE ALLEN, Linda Johnson, and Richard Bornhauser filled the traditional piñata with candy for the annual Christmas party.

Spanish Club

Bought children's gifts; held recognition dinner

Various activities were scheduled for this year's Spanish Club members. The club's traditions included decorating one of the halls, breaking a colorfully decorated piñata at their Christmas party, and sponsoring a Christmas project. For their project this year, they decided to purchase and distribute gifts to the children living in the Maude Carpenter Children's Home. Holding a recognition dinner at El Charro restaurant in the late spring was another of the annual activities for the members of Spanish Club. Of special interest to the students was the program given by Yvonne Allen. During the preceeding summer, she spent three weeks traveling throughout Mexico and studying the Spanish language in Taxco.

YVONNE ALLEN and Linda Johnson admired a velvet painting of a bullfight.

SENIOR FUTURE TEACHERS CLUB officers were (SEATED): Denise Hardtarfer, vice-president; Yvonne Allen, secretary. STANDING: Kathy Wilson, treasurer; Janella Pearson, president.

Future Teachers of America Divided into two clubs; initiated aide program

For the first time in the history of South's Future Teachers of America there was a division into two separate units, a sophomore club and a junior-senior club. Operating under different officers and sponsors, the groups were correlated, program-wise, into an efficiently operating organization. This year's club attained some of the skills necessary if they pursue their interests in the field of teaching. Approximately 34 club members of both clubs became teachers' aides in a program that originated second semester. In addition to their teaching activities, the club attended a luncheon-meeting and tour of the Wichita State University campus and the annual State Convention held at Kansas State Teachers College. Project-wise, F.T.A. gave $150.00 towards the purchase of a film for the English department.

THE SALE of popcorn was a highly successful project instrumented by the club in order to earn money.

SOPHOMORE FUTURE TEACHERS CLUB officers were (SEATED): Elaine Cantrell, treasurer; Sara Cox, vice-president. STANDING: Kathy Bringolf, secretary; Peggy Wise, president.

LEAFING THROUGH "Health" magazine for ideas were officers Ron Burch, president; Diane Kemble, vice-president; and Sam Wine, secretary-treasurer.

Future Medical Careers Discussed requirements; helped March of Dimes

Providing an insight to the numerous opportunities in the field of medicine was the principle on which the Future Medical Careers club was based. Guest speakers, field trips, and audiovisual techniques gave interested students a glimpse into the complex world of medicine. Members thoroughly discussed the requirements of a good preparation for careers in medicine, centering their talks on backgrounds, schooling, and finances. Staging bread sales and collections in connection with their major project, the March of Dimes, the students gave needed help to this worthy cause. Climaxing the year with the annual field trip to a large medical institution, many of the club members made their decisions on future careers, influenced by the valuable orientation into medicine.

SELLING BREAD for donations to the March of Dimes brought a pile of trouble on Carol Calkins, Roger Smith, and Diane Kemble.

Math Club

Broadened understanding via programs, field trips

Offering South High students better insight and knowledge along with valuable opportunities in mathematics was the purpose of South's Math Club. It is the Sigma Chapter of Wichita and a branch of the national organization, Mu Alpha Theta. In order to maintain full membership the participants had to be genuinely interested in math and demonstrate their ability by maintaining high grades in the math courses they were taking. Early in the year, some of the members heard Dr. Richard Andree, the founder of Mu Alpha Theta, speak at Friends University. Also included was a tour of the computer sections at Boeing during teachers' meetings. The members gave their own programs, which broadened their understanding while teaching them about various facets of higher mathematics.

MATH CLUB officers were Christy Hendricks, vice-president; Tammy Wood, secretary; Ron McCoy, treasurer; Bob Dover, president.

MATH CLUB — BOTTOM ROW: Mr. Blackwood, sponsor, B. McBride, C. Hendricks, G. Webb, T. Wood, R. Feeney, sponsor. TOP ROW: Y. Allen, R. McCoy, V. Brown, J. Mah, R. Dover, D. Funke, K. Bringolf.

KATHY BRINGOLF and Ginger Webb concentrated on figuring out the pattern of a mathematical puzzle.

TAMMY WOOD explained a function diagram to Dale Funke.

PERFORMING ONE of their many duties, John Stover and Joel White prepared magazines to be filed on the shelves.

BIBLIONAUT OFFICERS were Pat Cole, secretary; Donella Metcalf, president; Joel White, vice-president; John Stover, treasurer.

Biblionauts

Participated in field trip; joined KCLASS meetings

Biblionaut activities were launched by a membership campaign which greatly increased the club's size. A daylong district KCLASS meeting, held at Greensburg, was a highlight for ten members. Hard work on the part of everyone was a must as the Biblionauts prepared for the annual Book Fair in February. Without a doubt the most memorable of the club's activities was the trip taken to the Emporia State Teacher's College for the state KCLASS meeting for library aides. Club members enjoyed parties, participated in the traditional field trip, and gave their aid as proctors working in connection with the library. Celebrating the end of a very successful year with a spring picnic, Biblionauts elected new officers and recounted their many unique experiences of work and pleasure.

DANNY HEASLEY learned that working as a library aide was not as easy as it might have seemed to be.

High School Red Cross Gave worthwhile service to less fortunate children

Working with the Wichita Chapter of The Red Cross challenged members of South High's Red Cross club to be of service to their community and the world. One project done in cooperation with the city chapter was the planning and giving of a Christmas party for a group of Wichita's less fortunate children. Club members also were given an opportunity to participate in various phases of this year's Operation Holiday. The club was honored by the appointment of Denise Allen as co-chairman of this annual undertaking. Still another project entailed wrapping Christmas gift boxes to send to the Kansas State Industrial Reformatory in Hutchinson. Attending monthly city-wide high school Red Cross meetings throughout the year gave students a chance to exchange ideas and aided them in fulfilling their objective of serving others.

PAT FOSTER and Lonnie Horinek enjoyed donating a portion of their free time to help sort toys for distribution through Operation Holiday.

AT A PARTY for underprivileged children Judy Hart and Denise Allen helped youngsters make decorations for their Christmas tree.

DON SMITH, a record holder for the squat in his weight division, worked out while his spotter, Gail Drumm, looked on.

DANNY HEASLEY learned quickly that the road to being a record-holder was most often a long and exhausting one.

VARIOUS RECORDHOLDERS for the club were Don Smith, sophomore, 148 lb. division-300 lb. squat; Randy Leiker, junior, -181 lb. division-100 lb. curl; David Kennedy, junior, -181 lb. division-335 lb. deadlift; and John Bokey, junior, 165 lb. division-300 lb. squat and 390 lb. deadlift.

Rebelifters

Trained rigorously; vied for chance at competition

Becoming very active in its first year of existence, South's newly organized weight lifting club reached for a trio of goals. Challenged to work hard, club members kept busy trying to increase their strength, build body weight, and improve their athletic ability. Training sessions were held twice a week, and more than sixty lifters worked out in either the morning or evening sessions held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Competition between members became keen as each vied for the qualification that would allow him to participate in the scheduled meets. Almost daily, new records were established, topping old ones. Attempting to spread interest in the sport of weightlifting, the Rebelifters met with clubs from various cities throughout Kansas.

Explorer Post 800

Began building airplane; owned five transmitters

Noted as the only high school aviation specialty post in Wichita, Explorer Post 800 worked for a unique goal. Each member hoped to obtain his private pilot's license by the time he graduated. Already owning a 1966 Cessna 150, the post started a project to build another airplane. Powered with a Volkswagen engine, the "Southwind," when completed, will enable members to compile solo flight time at cheaper rates. For business and emergency situations, the post obtained a citizen's band license last summer, owning and operating five transmitters. The money for post activities was self-earned. Although catering with concession trailers was one source of income, the student lounge provided better opportunities. As owners of the dispensing equipment, the post made approximately two and a half cents on each drink sold.

LOREN JONES made a pre-flight inspection of the post's airplane before attempting to acquire some flying time.

ALBERT MARTINEZ, Patrick O'Brien, Roger Smith, Loren Jones, Keith Leslie, and Mark Bartlett patiently created a jig with which to construct their airplane.

Duplicats

Visited business offices; attended club breakfasts

Distinguished as the only such organization in Kansas, the Duplicats marked their second year with hard work. Participating wholeheartedly in efforts to raise money, club members sold donuts, South High bumper stickers, and held bake sales. This enabled them to cover the cost of attending the Business Education Clubs of Kansas state convention held at Emporia. The money won for second prize in the Christmas hall decorating contest was also used to meet convention expenses. The Duplicats planned breakfasts with similar club organizations at other city high schools, and in the classroom, they printed music and play programs in class exercises. Visiting a variety of business and printing offices, the students became well acquainted with the business activities that will one day be expected of them.

VICKI MORTON and Jeanie Knoblauch learn to operate a variety of complicated machines as a part of their job training.

DUPLICAT OFFICERS were (SEATED): Rhonda Steward, historian. STANDING: Nancy Herman, publicity chairman; Tracy Callaghan, sergeant-at-arms; Tracy McGrath, president; Brenda Howell, treasurer; Mary Stork, secretary; and Judy Robinson, vice-president.

OFFICE PRACTICE officers were Lyneta Noble, historian; Linda Wiederstein, parliamentarian; Nancy Wimberly, publicity chairman; Brooke Evans, state information secretary; Karen Burdick, secretary; Jacque Chilton, president; Sandra Tull, social chairman; Sharon Knight, treasurer.

Office Practice

Sold candy to supplement trip to BECK convention

Pre-school breakfasts, informal discussions with Office Practice alumni, and demonstrations and lectures presented by guest speakers from the business world highlighted the ninth year of existence of South's Office Practice club. Operating in a fully electric classroom for the first time ever, this year's club worked very hard in preparation for the Business Education Clubs of Kansas (BECK); state-wide convention. Hoping for another fine performance at the BECK convention, they sold candy and tickets to the first showing of "Gone With the Wind" in order to help finance the trip to the convention. Climaxing the year's work was a vocational awards assembly held in the East High auditorium and the annual employee-employer banquet.

CONNIE LOFDAHL found her office practice job at a local department store very rewarding and enjoyable.

JOLEEN DILL, Melinda Baile, LaDonna Chapman, and Jacky Luper worked hard at designing displays for the D.E. showcase.

Distributive Education Offered double program; education by employment

Introducing students to business and retailing, while developing their skills in salesmanship, necessitated an active year for the Distributive Education class. Members were offered a double program of applying the knowledge they acquired in the classroom to their practical jobs. Support from the retail stores and businesses was prompted by the club's affiliation with BECK, Business Education Clubs of Kansas, and DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America. Student jobs varied as cashiers at Crank's and Bleiers, sales clerks at the Crest and Boulevard Theaters. The DE group participated in the state leadership conference in Emporia in March and the annual employee-employer banquet in April. Breakfasts sponsored each month gave the members time to relax and socialize.

Y-TEEN OFFICERS were Vicki Williams, secretary; Shirley Watkins, treasurer; Marcia Simmons, president; Beverly Smith, vice-president.

Y-Teens

Gave party at hospital; collected for UNICEF

Challenged by the idealistic goals of growing religiously, developing individuality, and extending friendships, Y-Teen members plunged into an activity filled year. Projects which included selling "Spook Insurance" to those fearful of Halloween pranksters and sponsoring South High's UNICEF drive were only the beginning. Working together throughout the year, members found that their many varied activities benefited themselves as well as others. They presented a Thanksgiving assembly, decorated the big tree in the main hall for Christmas, and sponsored a Christmas party for the teen-age ward at Wesley Hospital. Rounding out the year, Y-Teens planned the annual Sadie Hawkins Week and dance, held a mother-daughter tea, and operated a booth at the Mardi Gras.

"LET'S ADD a little bit of orange," suggested Linda Rising (RIGHT) to Sandy Richman (LEFT) as they served refreshments at their "Coke Tail" party.

SOPHMORE REPRESENTATIVES, Lynda Whitford, Merita Wanker, and Pattie Watkins found that making payments to policy holders of "Spook Insurance" was a big job.

AVIATION CLUB — BOTTOM ROW: Mr. Anders, sponsor, L. Baty, D. Dresser, M. Sanborn, J. Sanders, B. Reischmann, L. Malsam, R. Sims, S. Greenelsh, S. Holder, B. Schrimshaw, H. Willey, M. Bartlett, L. JOYCE GREEN, James Mah, Jerry Parrott, and Vicki Payne examined the many gauges and instruments which a pilot must be able to read and understand at a brief glance.

RICK HYNES, Albert Martinez, and Loren Jones tested hypothetical problems in air flight in a miniature wind tunnel.

Aviation Club

Organized field trips; purchased subscriptions

Closely co-ordinated with the aeronautics class, the Aviation Club was organized to expand the amount of aviation reading material by providing magazine subscriptions to the library. Money for these materials was raised through candy sales. Club membership was open to all students involved and interested in the aeronautics course. Those who had already taken the class, and those who were planning to enroll also were eligible. Due to a common interest in aviation, the club held joint swimming parties with Explorer Post 800, and together with the aeronautics class, they sponsored field trips of aviation interest. The first semester group toured the Federal Aeromedical Research Center in Oklahoma City. They flew (of course) by prop jet.

PARTICIPATING IN required initiation activities, junior Roger Jeter earned his first letter.

Lettermen

Helped coaches promote enthusiasm for athletics

PLAYING A friendly game of one-on-one, junior Dave Bray attempted to block senior Don Minge's shot at a Lettermen's Recreation Night.

Responsible, honored, and dedicated athletes comprised the membership of South High's Lettermen's Club. Sponsoring a variety of events throughout the year, members accomplished their goals of assisting the coaches in the promotion of athletics, and maintaining administrative policies to benefit the school. To send two athletes to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes camp in the summer at Estes Park, Colorado, the club raised money by selling Halloween candy. During the Christmas holidays, the club helped a needy family by presenting them with a tree, gifts, and food. A Lettermen's Recreation Night was held on the first open Monday of each month, and at the close of the spring season, members were initiated at a special picnic.

Colonelettes

Won numerous victories; worked for letter points

Showing great spirit and a strong desire to win, the various girls' athletics teams posted numerous victories while the participants earned points towards their letters. Competing in basketball, tennis, volleyball, softball, hockey, track, gymnastics, archery, and bowling, the girls played with other school teams to promote inter-school relationships. Two events which provided opportunities for adding to the 100 points necessary for membership were the synchronized swim show and the modern dance show, but 70 additional points were needed before members could buy sweaters. Their next goal included hopes for membership in the 500-600-700-800 point clubs. Sponsoring two work days, a co-recreation night, and a caroling party, the club earned money for their annual spring picnic where awards were presented to the officers.

OTHER ACTIVITIES of the Colonelettes included Christmas caroling at surrounding homes.

CATHY WILTON and Sondra Angleton earned extra points toward their membership and letters by participating in an after school volleyball practice.

COLONELETTE OFFICERS were (SEATED): Vicki Carley, president; Susan Reed, vice-president. STANDING: Birdie McBride, publicity manager; Judy Brownbill, secretary-treasurer; Cathy Wilton, intramural sports manager.

Sponsored dances, pep rallies, hall decoration

Arousing school spirit was the main objective of the South High Pep Club this year, but cheering our players on to victory at the games was only a part of the activities of Pep Club members. Before each game, time was taken to make posters and decorate the halls. Girls participating in the extra-curricular activities of Pep Club received the number of points necessary for Honor Pep and were awarded a pin and special recognition. One of the projects the girls worked on for cumulative points was making the Homecoming float. Striving to involve the whole student body, Pep Club sponsored Pep rallies, and a "Come September" dance in the fall. Every minute was organized to promote school spirit in many different ways.

MEMBERS OF HONOR PEP held a toast during an Honor Pep supper to initiate new members.

SHARON LEE, Loretta Shull, Regina Harper, and Barbara Hayes enthusiastically painted a poster to promote spirit for the next game.

PEP CLUB MEMBERS found that supporting the Colonel teams demanded a great deal of vitality.

Cheerleaders

Initiated contests, held sales to earn uniforms

Directing school spirit was an important function of the cheerleaders, but their activities did not stop with leading cheers. In addition to holding a clinic for sophomores, they helped junior high schools with their cheerleading elections. Working throughout the summer, they washed windows and cars, ironed clothes, and held garage sales. At school the girls initiated contests that not only raised money, but also promoted interest by adding variety to the school scene. With the money they earned, the cheerleaders bought new basketball uniforms, and they attended the National Cheerleading Clinic in Dallas where they won 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place honors. At the ACF clinic in Wichita they won the Grand Champion Ribbon. For the first time, the cheerleaders adopted a mascot, and little Kelly Lacy became a delightful addition to the group.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of the Sadie Hawkins policy, Larry McKellips, Charlie Frank, Marc Nicolas, and Rod Stewart piled book on Linda Rising.

COURT ATTENDANTS were Patty O'Hearn, Dan Green, Mike Albert, and Glenda Gaines.

Sadie Hawkins

Changed "boy chase girl" trend; held hillbilly dance

"Chase 'Em and Catch 'Em" became the lively theme heard about South during Sadie Hawkins week. Sponsored by the Y-Teens, the celebration of this ancient "Dogpatch" custom gave the girls the opportunity to assume male roles of courtship. They opened doors, carried books and trays, walked boys to classes, and arranged dates. Students were urged to dress as members of the Dogpatch community for the concluding Saturday night dance, and a prize was given to the best costumed couple. "Marryin' Sam" contributed to the atmosphere by "hitchin" amorous pairs. However, the crowning of Sadie Hawkins royalty was the highlight of the evening. Amidst laughter and cheers, Ginger Webb and Steve Leiker were coronated Queen and King of the dance. Attendants were Glenda Gaines, Mike Albert; Patty O'Hearn and Dan Green.

"MARRYIN' SAM" (Robert Shirley) "hitched" hillbilly couple Merita Wanker and Vance Pogue.

SADIE HAWKINS' Dogpatch Queen and King were Ginger Webb and Steve Leiker.

THE TRADITIONAL ceremonies were highlighted with the crowning of Miss Pep.

Mr. and Miss Pep

Actively promoted school spirit throughout season

Chosen by the cheerleaders and Pep Club council, John Bales and Alice Burkett were elected Mr. and Miss Pep of 1967-68. Both had actively supported the football and basketball games throughout the season, and had attended various other athletic events. Displaying school spirit and enthusiasm, showing a willingness to work, and exhibiting a fine sense of fair play were a few of the worthy qualities that won them this recognition. Mr. Gene Lee, who had given unfailingly of his time and efforts to promote school spirit, was honored with the special title of Lord Pep. Senior attendants were Jennelle Watkins and Randy Cunningham; junior attendants were Kathy Nading and Roger Jeter; and sophomore attendants were Kris Lowrey and Hap Wood. Mr. and Miss Pep and their court were crowned during the last pep assembly of the season.

Mr. and Miss Pep for 1968 were Alice Burkett and John Bales.

SENIOR ATTENDANTS for Mr. and Miss Pep were Jennelle Watkins and Randy Cunningham.

MR. AND MISS Pep attendants were Kris Lowrey, Hap Wood, Kathy Nading, and Roger Jeter.

Band, Orchestra

Played stirring melodies at concerts, assemblies

Winning an appreciative audience, the band and orchestra musically served the students of South High. Gracing the four home football games were the band's rousing tunes and imaginative half-time performances, and home basketball games were distinguished for the first time by the gala blue and red striped sweaters of the pep band. During second semester the group was divided into a symphonic band and a concert band. Both groups and the orchestra performed for the student body at assemblies and gave evening concerts featuring a number of solos. Visiting schools within South's district, the band and orchestra favorably influenced many ninth graders. This noisy welcoming of future students gave the instrumental groups a head start on next year's activities.

IN STRIKING NEW uniforms, the South High pep band attempted to lead Colonel teams on to victory with music.

Vocal Music

Performed at festivals, entertained civic groups

Music created a special world for the many students enrolled in the seven vocal groups supported by the music department. A well-filled schedule kept members busy entertaining various civic organizations, clubs, churches, and schools. The South High Singers, a new group created from a combination of ensembles, gave added opportunity for student participation. Beginning with a Fall Concert and continuing throughout the year, the vocal groups performed for the student body in assemblies and vespers, and for the community at evening concerts. New costumes for the girls lent a gay note to these performances. Adding an enjoyable competitiveness to musical appreciation, the students attended the city festival, and later the state festival to round out an active and profitable year.

Scholarships

Became prospective goal of the ambitious students

Recognition for outstanding work in high school was given to many South High seniors in the form of monetary assistance for a college education. Sydney Martin was a semi-finalist for the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow scholarship, and Sara Cox was honored with the Daughters of American Revolution award. The National Society of Professional Engineers offered James Mah a scholarship, and National Merit semi-finalist Christy Hendricks was offered scholarships from both Nebraska and Kansas Wesleyan. Dan Cheatham, also a semi-finalist was presented numerous scholarships including offers from Nebraska Wesleyan, Texas Christian, Manhattan Bible, Bethel, and Doane College. Both Christy and Dan were awarded Moundbuilder scholarships from Southwestern College. Other scholarships were awarded later in the year.

SYDNEY MARTIN was a local winner in the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow contest.

NATIONAL MERIT semi-finalist Christy Hendricks received several monetary grants.

JAMES MAH was honored with a scholarship from the National Society of Professional Engineers.

THE DAUGHTERS of the American Revolution cited Sara Cox for good citizenship.

DAN CHEATHAM, a National Merit semi-finalist, was offered various scholarships.

1967 BOY'S STATE representatives included Ron Burch, Terry Pilgreen, and Tony Carr. Not pictured: John Stover.

MARRY BRAMMER was South's representative at Girl's State.

Senior Banquet

Heightened enchantment, significance of final year

Bright hopes coupled with lingering moments of nostalgia made the 1968 senior banquet "One Enchanted Evening." Enhanced by colored flowers and lights, the elegant simplicity of decor set a sophisticated atmosphere that prevailed throughout the night. The dinner, held at the Civic Playhouse, featured baked steak and various side dishes. A unique method of serving gave dessert a special twist. Waitresses capped with Colonel hats served Southern flag-topped parfaits to the merry tune of "Dixie." After dinner entertainment by the senior ensemble heightened the feeling of fellowship between class members. Guest speaker Mr. "Mac" McDonald introduced a serious note to the banquet with his speech about LIBERTY: loyalty, interest, bravery, education, religion, trust, and most importantly, youth.

Homecoming

Enthusiasm was created by revisions in festivities

"Southern Glory," this year's theme for homecoming, brought back nostalgic memories for the many graduates and excited the imaginations of the student body. Thoughts of past times and future hopes were combined to make the game played with West, lost 22-0, one of tense emotion and high feeling. Preparation for the weekend began early with a school "Spirit Week," and a student government sponsored car caravan. An increase in the number of Queen candidates eliminated junior attendants this year, and for the first time the king, Rusty Sims, was crowned on Friday night. Queen Paula Beebe, enthroned on a blue and white float, was surrounded by a heart-shaped band formation. Concluding the week's festivities, students attended the homecoming dance, which was held Saturday night with music by the Lion's Mane.

Southern belles danced, payed homage to queen

Arriving at the "Plantation Ball," the belles and gents of the junior-senior prom were greeted by sounds of excited people, and laughter intermingled with undercurrents of awe. Promenading beneath the arch, students danced to the music of Bob Austin's orchestra, admiring the decorations that had transformed the Cotillion Ballroom into a Southern mansion. The climax of the evening came with the coronation of Queen Debbie Dobbs and King Steve Ricketts. Royally accepting the mementos and bouquet of roses, they began the traditional dance of the king and queen. Senior royalty Debbie Nading, Scott Miller, Sherry Byers, and Kent Shurtleff were announced by mistress of ceremonies Leslie Hays, and Larry DeLozier introduced the junior attendants — Kathy Cooley, Bernie Popp, Diane Rossman, Ron Friedman, Gail Bourk, and Bob Buchiet.

Football

Team tallied three wins with determination, ability

Defeated by several tough opponents, the Colonel football team posted a somewhat-impressive 3-5-1 won-lost record. Finishing sixth in the city, the Rebgidders lost their season opener 14-7 to Winfield. Losing to Southeast, the team posted its first victory against Mulvane 21-0. Whitewashed by West the following week, South returned to winning ways as they squeaked by Heights and Bishop Carroll, only to lose the season finale 45-13 to city league champion East. With 35 lettermen, the team has 15 returning to compete next year. Senior guard Rusty Sims was named to the second team for all-city honors and seniors Cliff Jones, Mike Niedens, and Kent Shurtleff were selected for honorable mention. Ron Bonebrake and Shurtleff were honored as the Wichita newspaper's "Player of the Week."

JUNIOR RON FRIEDMAN battled his way for extra yardage against Heights as he carried Falcons Tom Kirk (61) and Bob Lunt (88).

PAINED BY a brutal block, senior Scott Miller gasped for air in the Colonels 13-13 stalemate with Kapaun.

DEFENSIVE HALFBACK Ron Friedman halted Carroll quarterback (60) and Cris Hughes (73) looked on.

MUD-STAINED and battle-scarred lettermen Rusty Sims (61) and Richard Ballinger (51) led the team onto the field for the final half against Southeast.

BOUNCING BACK from a 14-0 deficit against Carroll, Kent Shurtleff called for an end sweep with Ron Bonebrake carrying which resulted in a Colonel score.

SIGNAL CALLER Kent Shurtleff, fourth leading passer in the city, swept left end for a long gain at Winfield.

Seasons showed promise for Cadet, Raider teams

Victorious over Bishop Carroll, North, and the West Pioneers, South's "B" football team completed their season with a 3-4 won-lost record. Led by quarterback Mike Morrison and defensive standouts Bob Bucheit and Craig Liebst, the Raiders showed great signs of improvement at the close of their season as they defeated West. With a consistent, well-balanced offensive attack, the sophomore team scored in every game but one as they finished with a 4-4 record. Behind the powerful, open-field running of halfback Robbie Gore, the Cadets mauled Bishop Carroll 26-0 in their season opener. Their remaining three victories were posted over Heights, West, and Derby. The Cadets were nearly victorious in two heartbreakers, but they came up on the short end of respective 7-6 and 14-8 losses to East and Kapaun.

CADET ROBBIE GORE broke open for long yardage in their game with West.

WARDING OFF an attempted block by an unidentified Heights player, Barry Tinius pumped in two points for the Colonels.

COACH RALPH BRUMBACK, shown in an anxious moment, saw his hopes for an upset fade as the Southeast Golden Buffaloes stomped the Rebs 70-46.

Basketball

West Invitational triumph highlighted cage season

While finishing a disappointing seventh in the city league, South's basketball team displayed several bright spots during the season. With a 3-11 won-lost record in league play, the team posted victories over West, Kapaun, and Bishop Carroll. Defeating Nickerson and Chanute in the preliminary games of the West Invitational tournament, the Rebs defeated the host Pioneers 64-59 to capture first place. With only one returning letterman, the Rebs' lack of experience proved a difficult obstacle, but team members compensated for their limited numbers by using hustle and a fast-break style offense. Led by seniors Van VanDeusen and Ray Knaack, and juniors Ron Friedman and Bob Bucheit, the team posted a total record of eight wins against 13 losses.

JUNIOR RON FRIEDMAN grabbed a rebound away from East's Paul Packer during the teams' first meeting.

TIPPING THE BALL over Carroll's Steve Beyerle (53) Ron Friedman added two points for South near the end of the first half.

JUMPING HIGH over two Kapaun defenders, junior Rodger Gutzmer laid the ball in.

SHOOTING OVER the outstretched arm of West's Richard Van-Leeuwen, senior Ray Knaack helped the Rebs on the way to their 64-62 win over the Pioneers.

Underclassmen competed to gain game experience

Showing overall hustle and fierce determination South's 'B' basketball team won three consecutive games twice during the season. Paced by Rodger Gutzmer, John Robertson, Roger Jeter, Tom Lassley, and Tom Palmer the team ended the year with an 8-8 won-lost record. All five saw action in varsity uniforms while Gutzmer and Lassley usually led the Raider scoring. Sophomores Alan Lewis, Frank Hoffman, Jerry Weber, and Rod DeGarmo showed strong desire but proceeded to win only three games through the season. The highlight of the year for the Cadets was their victories over Augusta and West in the Cadet's tournament which enabled them to capture first place. Their lone league victory was over the Bishop Carroll Golden Eagles 54-53.

Gymnastics

Squad paced by Wiles; took 1st in city, regional

Propelled by outstanding team effort, the Colonel gymnasts captured city league honors, first place in the southern regional, and second place in state competition at Manhattan. Experiencing their second straight undefeated dual season, the gymnasts finished first in the Medicine Lodge and Heights Invitational. The team's supreme gymnast, Norman Wiles, paced the squad throughout the season and topped the year by sharing two undisputed state first places. Excelling in all-around and high bar, he tied for another first in free exercise competition. Seniors Don Lemons and Terry Blanchard and underclassmen Mike Strong, Tom McGill, Steve Avila, Jesse Serrano, John McQuillan, and Kevin Kramer added depth to the team as well as turning in fine individual performances all season.

PERFORMING SCISSORS on the side horse, junior Mike Strong proved to be one of the Colonels' best performers in this event.

BRINGING HIS legs gracefully through in a stoop vault on the long horse was Tom McGill.

Wrestling

Placed ninth in district; L. Woodward led squad

Winning only one dual meet through the complete season, the Colonel wrestling team came on strong in the latter part of the year to finish ninth in the district meet. The Reb grapplers lone victory was in their last meet of the season against the Douglass Bulldogs. Individual performances added several bright spots. Seniors Larry Woodward, Mike Niedens, and Jerry Johnson led the varsity attack, while juniors Richard McNabb and John Wolf rounded out the squad. Sophomore standouts who competed in varsity meets were Tom Bates, David Spears, and Greg Evans. The "B" wrestling team was paced by Garry Woodward, Stan Williams, and George Hammons. Larry Woodward, Bates, and Spears all qualified for regional competition.

SENIOR MATMAN Mike Niedens attempted a chicken-wing cross face maneuver on his Southeast foe which enabled him to win 9-2.

TOM BATES, showing great signs of promise as a sophomore, gained valuable riding time over his opponent.

COACH LOUIS VALADEZ gave instructions to junior wrestler, Richard McNabb in the Rebs dual meet with Heights.

COMPLETING A cross-body hold, junior Richard McNabb defeated his Kapaun adversary.

LEADING COLONEL wrestler Larry Woodward tried to turn his Southeast opponent over in hope of a pin.

Swimming

Finished ninth in state; thirteen finmen to return

Compiling a seasonal dual record of five wins and four losses, a young group of Reb swimmers flipped their way to a ninth place finish in state competition. Swimming with only one senior, the ambitious squad showed improvement and signs of promise for next year's season. The efforts of Gaylord DeMoure, the only senior, Tom Turner, Mike Traner, and the Liebst brothers, Craig and Jerry, paced the team to its respectable season's finish. Traner, rated as the top underclass diver in the state meet, placed fourth in the statewide competition at Lawrence. A rapidly improving junior, Tom Turner, garnered a fifth place finish in the state 50 yard free-style event. The other swimmer placing in the state meet was Jerry Liebst, who finished in fifth place in the 100 yard backstroke, and in addition was chosen this year as the team's most inspirational swimmer.

TOP REB swimmer Jerry Liebst showed excellent form in the 100 yard backstroke.

AFTER MANY hours of hard practice, junior Tom Turner performed the 60 yard free style with effortless ease.

MIKE TRANER, the number one South diver, entered the pool after successfully completing a forward two and a half somersault dive.

Cross Country

Combined efforts paced team to seventh in state

Possessing one returning letterman, the Colonel harriers surpassed all pre-season expectations and finished seventh in the state and second in the city. With greatly improved times, the team posted an impressive record of two firsts and six seconds. New two-mile run records for their respective classes were set by senior Lyndal Bryan 10:17, junior Brad Pearce 10:05, and sophomore Dave Houchin 10:24. Led by Bryan, Houchin, Pearce, W. H. Sparkman, Mike Varnum, Brian Rosene, Harold Wood, Ron Griffith, and John Hipp the varsity brought home the first cross country trophy. "B" team runners Doug Fiechtner, Rod Bolay, Rod Degarmo, and Garry Woodward paced the team to an excellent record of six firsts and one second.

Girls' Athletics

Teams faced competition with expanded schedules

In its fifth year of competition, the girls' athletics program flourished under expanded schedules. The girls competed in hockey, tennis, volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, and softball. Still undefeated after five years, the hockey team kept a clean slate by winning six matches and tying one. Pitted against teams from the surrounding Wichita area, the volleyball team finished with a .667 won-lost percentage, and the tennis team made impressive showings at Anthony, Hutchinson, and Winfield. The softball team found the going rough when they met Wichita North and Heights, but the girls' gymnastics team competed successfully in the Washburn Rural Invitational and in the city meet which was hosted at South. Hopefully meeting Peabody and Leon, the basketball five found competition hard to fin.

HOCKEY INSTRUCTOR, Mrs. Marilyn Morris gave advice to an anxious group of girls in a hockey match early this year.

SHOOTING OVER the outstretched arm of senior Susan Reed, Georgia Garrett, junior roundballer, popped in two points in basketball practice.

LEADING GIRL gymnasts were STANDING: Crystal Beardemphl, Diane George, Pam Curtis, Connie Conaway, Jeanette Marquand, and Debbie Dobbs. On the bar were Candy Cozad, Ava Walters, and Janice Stevens.

SENIORS CATHY WILTON and Janella Pearson teamed together in tennis doubles to lead the girls' netwomen..

Boys Intramurals

Teams, faculty clashed in league, tournaments

Highly successful in its second year, the boys' intramural program centered upon competitive basketball. Led by Coach Artie Dillon and social studies teacher James Anderson, the faculty made an impressive showing by losing only one game. One of the toughest student teams, the Menageries, upset the faculty 60-59. Tying the faculty for first place by losing only one game, the Pollocks also were successful, and the Bruins defeated top student teams to capture fourth place. The second division teams, in order of their finish, were the Shots, Inmates, Pros, and Gunners. After the league season ended, the teams played two double elimination tournaments. To complete the year, a student all-star team met the faculty. In addition to basketball, the program provided for an open gymnasium where students organized games.

DOING A tri-press lift in after-school weight-lifting, junior Dennis Maze strained to complete the maneuver.

IN BASKETBALL competition, Ron Guest, pumped in a two-pointer while Tony Carr, David Mattingly, Don Minge, and Edgar Jones looked on.

Spring Preview

Teams anticipated better seasons, performances

Enrolled in a special boys' sports class for physical conditioning this year, South's spring sports participants gained an edge over the athletes of previous years. Calisthenics, weight lifting, and running were emphasized in the class. Six returning senior lettermen to the baseball team led hopes for a high finish in both city and state competition. Two returning junior lettermen were expected to lead a young and relatively inexperienced track team to a high finish in the city league. In a building year, South's tennis team had only one returning letterman. Many junior non-lettermen hoped to vie for the other top spots. The golf linksmen were led this year by two returning seniors and one returning junior letterman.

SENIOR LINKSMAN Dan Green, junior hopeful Ken Engquist, and junior letterman David Lewandowski expected to lead the team to a better season than last year.

RETURNING BASEBALL lettermen Tony Carr, Rusty Sims, Ron Bonebrake, Randy Cunningham, and Scott Miller anticipated high finishes in both city and state competition.

ROGER ROLLER, lone tennis letterman, was expected to lead the squad in a building year.

A YOUNG and inexperienced track team hoped for a high finish led by cinderman W. H. Sparkman.

Seniors

Discovered possibilities in education, knowledge

The senior year was a good year, a time of many opportunities for leadership, responsibilities, and fellowship with friends. Seniors faced many decisions concerning their future: they realized that tomorrow doesn't wait, but suddenly becomes today. They discovered the way to knowledge through experience, and having proved their dependability, they were given more freedom to search for new answers. Events began to hold special meaning, for underlying the gaiety was the sad thought, "This is the last game, the last prom, the very last time for so many things." Although the class of 1968 had reached the highest level of their high school years, it was the end of only one phase. The climax of graduation was the beginning of another — a richer, more rewarding hope in the future.

Defined class objectives; matured, made progress

The junior year has been a transitory period, an intermediate time of progress and change. Propelled by initiative and drive, juniors began making plans in the summer for ways to promote magazine sales. The consequent junior talent assembly inspired the juniors to sell over $4,000 worth of magazines. Striving for class unity, juniors held a "Happening," and created a strong bond between the students. While stressing individuality, the juniors did not shun responsibility. Accepting leadership, the success of the junior-senior prom proved them capable of handling difficult assignments, for growing in maturity, they faced many decisions in defining their goals. The symbolic turning of rings at the end of the year indicated that they were ready to meet new challenges, and move on to richer paths of knowledge.

Sophomores

Enthusiastically promoted unified class participation

As the largest sophomore class in the history of South, the class of 1970 had more going for them than the ushering in of a new decade. Bewildered and a bit awed at first by the complex organization, the sophomores soon found their special niche. Losing no time in electing competent officers, they rallied around and enthusiastically supported their school. Raising funds for activities was a main class objective. Bake sales, a slave week, managing a booth at the Mardi Gras, and selling colonel hats and flags for Homecoming were just a few of the ways by which they achieved their goal. Highlighting the year with several class parties, full participation was stressed at all times. At the end of the year, no one could doubt that the sophomore class had defined itself as an integral part of South.

RUSHING TO beat the bell proved disastrous for Diane Harmon and Rick Weaver as they collided head on while rounding the corner.

*A time for . . .
fulfillment . . . sharing moments made precious by daring to accomplish the impossible task of finding that tall humble beauty of achievement.*

*Circling in dimensions of time, we came unwittingly at first, to play within these walls.
Satisfied, we wandered in fixed realms of the present
our past-measured by the childish dreams
we sacrificed unwillingly;
our future no more than vague interpretations of hope.
Yet like the budding flower's tentative explorations of the sun, we walked those halls. And Somewhere . . . in the books we read?
the questions asked, answered? or perhaps the things we heard and saw a tiny spark ignited licking flames that spurred our minds into curiosity.
Listening, learning, breathing deeply of strange ideas, we stumbled blindly towards that open door, each step holding new meaning,
each movement beginning a realization that there are no limits save those we set ourselves.
And pushed onward by our ambitions to reach that far tomorrow,
we continued.
Slowly becoming aware of the ever widening dimensions of Time.*

I would like to acknowledge the many people who gave invaluable assistance and greatly aided in the production of this book. Many thanks to Mr. Frank Wright and Mr. John Saylor of American Yearbook Company, South's administrative staff and faculty, and the student body for their cooperation in the book's publication. A special note of thanks goes to student government for their financial support which enabled us to have a better quality cover. On a more personal note, I will take this opportunity to extend an individual thank you to each staff member and say congratulations on the production of a fine yearbook.

Gary,
Your a good comic lots of laughs. A Guy whom I have known for 2 grade good luck
with the girls.
Filthy Phil Johnico

Good luck in the future!
